WHEELS MOVING FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Automobile Parade the First Official Event, is Pulled Off According to the Schedule.

GOOD PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT

Sunday Schools of County Will Have Big Part in Saturday's All Day Meeting.

 OPENING PROGRAM. *****

* Time—7:30 this evening.
* Place—City Park.
* Announcement of winners in newspaper contests.
* Musical prelude, Lady Washington quartet.
* Lecture, "Musical Fits and Misfits." Spillman Riggs, humorist.

The sixth annual Chautauqua is on, and there is every assurance that it will be the most successful ever held in the county. The only one who can put a dampener on the ten days' meeting now is the weather man and the management has made every effort to prevent inconvenience in case of rain.

The first official event of the Chautauqua was the automobile parade this afternoon at three o'clock. There was a goodly number of machines in line and the fact that many farmers were unable to leave their work kept many away. However, the parade was a good feature, and attracted much attention. The line of march ended at the park.

One of the chief features of the opening night will be the announcement of the winners in the newspaper contests. The Daily Republican has two contests, the slogan contest, and one for papers on the improvement of Rushville. The Democrat has a library contest and the American, a good roads contest. Much interest has been aroused especially in the slogan contest, and it is thought more slogans have been submitted than in any similar contest ever held in the State. The judges have worked hard in making a choice, and many of the slogans were so good that the judges' work was difficult. It is said that many good papers have been submitted for all these contests, and the winning papers will be published after the winners are announced.

In arranging the program the Chautauqua management tried to get an interesting bill for the first night and selected Spillman Riggs, the humorist, who comes highly recommended.

The Lady Washington quartet arrived last night and will give a musical prelude this evening. This organization also comes with a good record, and will stay until Sunday evening. The quartet will give an entire program Saturday afternoon.

Saturday will be one of the big days of the Chautauqua. The day's program will open at 10 o'clock with a parade that starts from the court house at that time. In this parade all the Sunday schools of the county are expected to take part. The line of march is up Main street to Ninth and west in Ninth street to the Chautauqua grounds. At eleven o'clock Herbert H. Monninger of Cincinnati one of the best known Sunday school workers in the United States will deliver an address. At the noon hour it is expected that the Chautauqua grounds will be converted into a mammoth picnic park, and there will be many basket dinners. In the afternoon a good program has been arranged.

STIFFLER SAVES HIS FRIEND'S LIFE

Steps in and Knocks Down Aggressive Negro Who Was Beating Noble C. Mann.

RUSHVILLE BOY EXONERATED

Ralph Stiffler returned from Indianapolis last night and has set himself right on the mix-up reported in an Indianapolis paper yesterday. Stiffler with a friend, N. C. Mann, was in the hotel, where Mann roomed. A bell boy started trouble with Mann over an old squabble, and was badly beating Stiffler's friend, when the Rushville football player stepped in and put an end to the trouble by knocking the negro down. Mann and Stiffler walked on away, but the bell boy followed them into the street and stabbed Mann. The police arrived and took them all to the station, but released Stiffler and Mann as soon as they found the fault was all the negro's. Stiffler says charges of assault and battery with intent to kill will be filed against the negro.

AGED WOMAN GOES TO THE POOR FARM

"Aunt Mary" Budd, a Familiar Old Character of Carthage, Has No Living Relatives.

UNABLE TO CARE FOR HERSELF

Trustee A. O. Hill took "Aunt" Mary Budd to the county infirmary at Rushville last Friday, says the Carthage Citizen. For a number of years it has been apparent to those who knew Aunt Mary that she was becoming more and more helpless and how best to care for her has been a puzzling question. She was not able to care for herself and the house in which she has lived was very unsanitary and fast decaying, so that she could not stay longer in it with comfort, nor was it worth repairing.

There were no relatives living, so far as she knew, and the few distant relatives of John Budd, her husband, who has been deceased for some years were not able to care for her. Aunt Mary very wisely considered the whole matter and after conferring with her friends about the matter, she sent for the trustee and asked that he make application for her in the county home. Here she will have the attention when needed and can be cared for better than elsewhere.

CAME HERE, WE SUPPOSE!

Greensburg News: Thirty tramps, some of them typical bo-s of the road were run out of the city this morning by Sheriff Patterson and Officer Elmer Robbins.

HATCHET STRUCK HIM IN THE NECK

Earl Conoway Had a Narrow Escape
From Instant Death This Morning.

A PAINFUL WOUND INFLICTED

Keen-Edged Instrument Falls Heavily on Cripple's Neck While he Was at Work.

Earl Conoway, who is widely known here as "Crip," met with an unfortunate accident this morning while at work at the new country home of William Alexander, which might have cost him his life. He was at work lathing a room and on stooping over to pick up a bundle of lathes he stuck his hatchet in the ceiling above. In some manner the instrument jarred loose and fell heavily, striking Conoway on the side of his neck. An ugly wound about four inches in length was inflicted, narrowly missing the jugular vein. Before he suffered the loss of much blood he was driven to this city to the office of Dr. Will C. Smith and the wound closed by stitches from the surgeon's needle.

Conoway is unfortunately crippled, and many persons in his condition would not think of working. But he is an industrious and plucky chap and not only fills the place of an ordinary skilled laborer, but is said to be an expert in his line and able to "put it all over" his fellow workmen in the amount of work done.

After the injury was dressed he asked to be taken home and informed the Alexanders that he would be at work in the morning. Those who witnessed the accident thought that the young man's working days were over.

POLICE SEEK MAN WHO WORKED HERE

Tried to Get Physicians to Become Medical Examiner For Different
Insurance Companies.

BUT THEY HAD TO BUY POLICY

The Muncie police are looking for a man who was here about ten days ago trying to work the game for which they want him. Dr. Lowell Green, secretary of the Rush County Medical Association, has received a letter from Van Benbow, superintendent of the Muncie police, asking for information concerning the man. The letter says he goes under the name of Harold S. Shafer and Earl S. Hall, the latter being the name he used here. Mr. Green says the man was in his office and answered the description in every detail. He pretends to represent different insurance companies and is looking for a medical examiner. However, he will not make the appointment until the physician has purchased a policy. He is wanted on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The following description is given: About fifty years old, dark complexion, smooth face, or may have short mustache, now; has a scar about two inches long on the left side of his face; iron gray hair; 5 feet, 11 inches tall; weight 160 pounds; prominent cheek bones; is a good talker and is well versed in life insurance business.

BOOM BOOSTED MANY NOTCHES

Young Men's Commercial Club Has Its Second Rousing Meeting
at the Court House.

SPEECHES MADE BY VETERANS

Encouraging Talks From Watson and Hall—New Board of Directors
Has First Session.

The Young Men's Commercial Club held another rousing meeting last night and the boom movement was shoved along several notches. The attendance was three times as large as it was Monday night, and in many ways the meeting resembled the good old fashioned revival meetings. When the secretary called for recruits, there was a scramble for the paper, and no less than thirty-five decided then and there to get on the band wagon.

Just to get the spirit and see what the young men were doing several of the older men were out last night and they got what they were looking for. Many of them bear the scars of former efforts to boom the town, but for every scar there was a word of encouragement. They said this organization looked different—commented on the fact that the young blood was in it, and were astounded at the vigor and enthusiasm there was in the movement. Incidentally they gave some wholesome advice which was gladly received and appreciated. Everyone of them said he was willing to lend a hand and give his money. To show they meant it most of them walked up and signed the "pledge."

James E. Watson told the boys he was ready to be a soldier and work and give his money toward the movement. He touched on Rushville's past experiences and urged the young men not to be discouraged by some minor obstacles they would run into. He said there were knockers, and that the only thing to do with them was to run right over them and glory in the chance to do so. Mr. Watson said he had every confidence in the young men and he was sure the accepted time had arrived and that the population of the city would be doubled within a few years.

Lieutenant Governor Hall made an encouraging speech and, like Mr. Watson, he said he was sure there was real fire in this movement and that it would bring results. He said concerted effort was what was needed, and he said he was willing at all times to give his help and money to the movement to improve Rushville.

Encouraging talks were made by Mayor Cowing, J. A. Tittsworth, H. E. Barrett and Will Newbold, all of whom were asked to talk by President Caldwell.

By-laws for the club were approved last night, and steps will be taken at once toward incorporation.

The directors for the club were named last night to serve one year. On motion of Dr. Frank Green, three of the officers, president, Fred A. Caldwell, vice president, Howard Mullin, secretary, John Demmer, and treasurer, W. O. Feudner, were named as four of the directors. Will Newbold was chosen as the fifth. Just to show that they meant business and did not propose to let the grass grow under their feet the new directors held a meeting this morning and disposed of some important matters.

A round table discussion followed the regular business, but there were not so many talks from the younger men last night, due probably to the fact that they were a bit timid about talking after they had heard the veterans give encouraging remarks. However, the fire was still there, and it apparently had such a start that it will take a lot of cold water to check it even. The hard thing to accomplish last night was the adjournment and even after the meeting had formally closed, many stayed and whooped it up some.

The next meeting will be held two weeks from last night, and in the meantime the directors and committees will be getting in some good hard work. President Caldwell appointed a "flying squadron" to enlist new members. The men on this committee are Russel Casady, Clarence Cross, Norm Norris, John Demmer, Fred Beale, E. I. Higgs and Claude Simpson.

MRS. GLEN WICKS PALMER'S DEATH

Young Bride Well Known in This City, Victim of Appendicitis
at Crawfordsville.

DEATH FOLLOWS OPERATION

The Indianapolis News has the following concerning the death of Mrs. Glen Wicks Palmer, who was well known here and often visited her uncle, Ernest B. Thomas:

Following an operation for appendicitis, Mrs. Glen Wicks Palmer, wife of Harry Palmer of Crawfordsville, died at one o'clock Thursday morning. Mrs. Palmer, a bride of eight months, was taken ill Saturday and on Monday an operation was performed, but she never rallied from its effects. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wicks of Merrill, Miss., parents of the young woman, were at her bedside when she died.

Mrs. Palmer, who was twenty-two years old, was prominent in social life in Crawfordsville, and was an accomplished musician. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

MOTHER DIES OF BROKEN HEART

On Hearing of Son's Misdeeds Mrs.
Martin Howe Fainted and Never Revived.

FORGED CHECKS FOR BIG SUMS

Were Drawn on Joseph Pickard, a Brother of L. S. Pickard of This City.

The metropolitan newspapers carried a story yesterday from Frankfort, Indiana, one of the principals in the story being Joe Pickard, well known here, and the brother of L. S. Pickard of North Benjamin street. The story follows:

"On hearing of her son's misdeeds, Mrs. Martin Howe, mother of Milo Howe, who fled the county after having forged the name of his father-in-law to a number of notes, fainted. When told of her son's flight and crimes, Mrs. Howe collapsed and was removed to the hospital, where she died, being unable to rally from the shock.

"Following the announcement that Milo Howe, after forging the name of Joseph Pickard, his father-in-law, to numerous notes, had fled the county, came the announcement that his wife Mrs. Nancy Belle Howe, had filed suit in the court here against him for divorce and alimony to the amount of $1500. In her complaint the wife charges that her husband forged her father's name to notes and that he had left the county with Pearl Eads.

"According to Joseph Pickard, his name appears as security upon notes to the amount of $1500. His signatures to all these notes are pronounced a forgery. Two of the banks in this city hold over $1000 in these notes, while the Michigantown bank holds a note calling for $500. Howe was rated as a successful farmer and had good crops on his farm this year. He is about thirty-five years of age and has a wife and four children."

THIS HORSE NOT IN FLIRTING HABIT

Ge's Scared and Runs Away When Woman Passes and Gives it High Sign.

BUGGY NOT MUCH GOOD NOW

There was plenty doing in Glenwood for a short time last night, and as a result Fred Guffin has the remains of a buggy that would not sell very high on the market. His horse was hitched to a post in front of the postoffice and when a woman passed and raised her hand suddenly in passing she scared the horse. Mr. Horse, who was not used to flirting or at least in getting the high sign in that manner, jumped, broke loose and started down the street. A short distance away it ran the buggy into a tree, and that was about all there was to it for the buggy. The frightened animal was caught after it had run a short distance farther.

IT'S THE WORST YET.

It is said a farmer over in Hancock county threshed one hundred acres of wheat, the yield being four bushels to the acre. The seed cost $2 a bushel.

RUG FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Georgia School of Technology Students Made One to Decorate White House.

The colors of the Georgia School of Technology worked into a handsome rug are to decorate the White House. The rug is 7 by 10 feet, is handmade entirely of cotton, and the colors are gold and white. In the center is a large letter "T." When President Taft visited Atlanta last January he made an address to the "Tech" students and received an ovation. Mr. Taft requested that some article be made by the students and sent to him as a souvenir of his visit.

Accordingly the students of the textile department decided to make the rug. It was designed by E. H. Rogers of Milton county, Ga., who is a member of the senior textile class. In the making of the rug all the textile seniors and members of the textile class took a hand.

Lesson VI.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 8, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Thess. v, 12-24. Memory Verses, 16-18—Golden Text, I Thess. v, 15—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

The topic of our lesson is Paul's instructions to the Thessalonians, and yet we are assigned a very small portion of this most helpful epistle. Let those who would profit most by our study today note how much Paul has to say about the word of God, the gospel of God and the faith of these people. See in chapter I, 1, where this great salvation placed them and places every true believer "in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ," that we might walk worthy of God, who hath called us unto His kingdom and glory while we wait for His Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus who delivered us from the wrath to come (II, 12; I, 10). The word "comfort" in IV, 18; V, 11, reminds us that, being in God the Father, we are in Him who is "the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort," that we who enjoy Him might bear His comfort to others, the comfort of His great salvation, of His continual care of His redeemed and of the glory of His kingdom. In the opening verses of the portion given us as a lesson we are exhorted to esteem those who bring us this comfort in His name, which must certainly mean that, while we esteem them, we give Him always the pre-eminence in all things, that the Lord alone may be exalted (Col. I, 18; Isa. II, 11, 17). Having obtained peace with God through Him who made peace for us and who is our peace and who will give us peace always by all means if we will let Him (Eph. II, 13, 14; Col. I, 20; II Thess. III, 16), we are exhorted to be at peace among ourselves, for all envying and strife are from beneath, not from above (Jas. III, 15-18). In chapter IV, 11, we hear of an ambition to be quiet and to attend to one's own business, for the word "study" in that verse is a word used elsewhere only in Rom. XV, 20; II Cor. V, 9, and really signifies a holy ambition in these matters.

There will always be some disorderly ones who need warning, some feeble minded who specially need comfort and some weak ones needing support, and with all classes we are to manifest the love of God and the patience of Christ (II Thess. III, 5). Col. I, 11, is a most wonderful word on patience and the need of it and the kind the Lord loves. To return good for evil is Christ-like and to bless those who curse us and pray for those who persecute us (Matt. V, 44). A Christian should be a happy person, rejoicing evermore, rejoicing in the Lord and before the Lord and in spite of all manner of circumstances (Phil. IV, 4; Deut. XII, 12, 18; Hab. III, 17, 18), because He is worthy to be praised, always loving us, always caring for us and fulfilling Rom. VIII, 28, 32. It is our privilege to be in constant touch and communion with God through Jesus Christ, to talk with Him about everything and thus to pray without ceasing, be free from all anxiety and enjoy the peace which passeth all understanding (Phil. IV, 6, 7). If we only knew the blessings which we might bring from God to people in the name of Jesus Christ and the strength and encouragement we might bring to many a lonely, weary missionary, it does seem as if we would be most gladly talking with God about some one all the day long. To say, "Father, I thank thee," thus accepting all that comes or that does not come as the will of God for us is the only proper attitude of a child of God, knowing that He so loved us as to give His only begotten Son to die for our sins, cannot withhold any real good, but will with Him freely give us all things (Ps. LXXXIV; Rom. VIII, 32). Compare Eph. V, 20.

Unbelievers resist the Spirit by refusing to receive Jesus Christ. Believers grieve Him by sin or quench Him by disobedience or by despising His message through the prophets. God has told us by the prophets all that He intends to do, and if we would walk with Him as He would like us to we must be perfectly agreed with Him by believing all that the prophets have spoken; otherwise our Lord will count us foolish people (Amos III, 3, 7; Luke XXIV, 25). We cannot believe all that men teach, but must try the spirits, for there are many false teachers. All who do not accept Jesus as God manifest in the flesh, truly a man, a sinless man, but truly God, the Creator of all things, are not sent of God. Those who deny the supernatural birth of Jesus or His literal resurrection from the dead and His ascension to the right hand of the Father are not in accord with the Scriptures. Those who deny that Christ died for our sins, the just for the unjust, made sin for us, and that, apart from His sacrifice, any one can be saved, are not of God. We must stand with Christ in all that He said and did; otherwise we are against Him. By His word we must prove all things and reject all that is not according to Scripture, holding fast the faithful word (Tit. I, 9).

As we are here in Christ's stead to manifest His life in these mortal bodies, we cannot be His faithful witnesses if anything unholiness is seen in us. There is a filthiness of the spirit as well as of the flesh from which we must cleanse ourselves if we would be such sons and daughters as the Almighty desires (II Cor. VI, 16-18; VII, 1).

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 8, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.
Topic.—Why war should be abolished.—Isa. II, 2-4; Matt. V, 33-48.

Living in the twentieth century with all the history of the past behind us, it should scarcely be necessary to discuss the subject of why war should be abolished. Once the glory of victory in war was the ideal of the nations of the world. Persia, Greece and Rome were constantly at war, each in their order becoming the supreme nation of the time. And that which was gained through the glory of war was, after all, very little, and one nation soon overcame the other. At such a time, however, such a question might have been raised without any seeming lack of necessity, but that today it should still be necessary to discuss it is one of the dark spots on modern civilization. Isaiah speaks of a time when nations "shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift sword against nation; neither shall they learn war any more." The time seems to be approaching when this prophecy shall be fulfilled.

1. The curse of war should lead to its abolition. General Sherman's definition of war is well known, and it is well known to be true. There has never been anything on earth so typical of the place of perdition as war. If we had the statistics of all who have died in or because of war, if we knew the number of widows and orphans made by war and what they have suffered, if we had certain knowledge of all who have escaped death and wounds, but who have been morally and spiritually ruined while engaged in war, we might be enabled to slightly estimate what a curse war has been to the human race. It arouses the basest passions of men, and, like wild beasts, they are made more inhuman by the sight of blood in time of battle and burn with but one desire—namely, to destroy their fellow men. Nations have been ruined in a day, and even the curse of war has led to awful slaughter and bloodshed in the church of Christ.

2. The expense of war should lead to its abolition. What the wars of the world have cost in money cannot be estimated, but if it could the figures would be enormous. The money spent today on armies and navies, even in time of peace, is beyond human conception. And the people bear the burden. If there were no war departments to support, no war vessels to build, no standing armies to support, no pensions to pay, what a financial burden would be lifted from the people of every nation. Billions of dollars could be spent for schools, the talented poor could be educated in art and music, and hundreds of blessings could be made possible which are now impossible because of the great war expenses in time of peace.

3. The supremacy of Christianity should lead to the abolition of war. Christ came to bring peace—not in a day, but by the gradual growth and acceptance of His teachings. War is un-Christian. It is based upon selfishness, jealousy, hate—all of which are un-Christian. We are to love our enemies and not to fight them. The Golden Rule, if practiced by nations, would abolish war in a day.

4. There is no necessity for war today, and for this reason it should be abolished. Diplomacy and arbitration could settle all international disputes without war. Moreover, they would if it were not for the fact that the nations are armed to the teeth. Disarmament of all nations is the only sure guarantee against wars. So long as nations "learn war" there will be wars. A nation trained to fight will always be ready to fight. Turn all implements of war into tools of industry, cease to train armies and build navies, and "nation shall not lift up the sword against nation." Universal peace will prevail.

Local Churches Sunday School Lesson Christian Endeavor

BIBLE READINGS.

Job I, 13-20; Lev. XXVI, 17, 31-39; Ps. XLVI, 8-11; Isa. IX, 5-7; XI, 1-10; Luke II, 8-15; Ps. LXXVIII, 30; Rom. XII, 9-21; Rev. IX, 1-21.

Zealous Samoan Endeavorers.

"The Samoan islands," says Rev. J. W. Hills of Upolu, Samoa, "divided between Germany and America politically, are filled with ardent Christians, and these are imbued with the utmost enthusiasm for missions to other parts of the Pacific, while nowhere in the world is there a larger proportion of Christian Endeavor work. Indeed, much of the very best of our missionary work among this charming race is done on the Christian Endeavor plan, which has peculiar attractions for them and forms a solid, integral and permanent part of our system."

"The missionary work in which these Endeavor societies take an invaluable share is a marvelous one. We are now each year sending five or six couples of native evangelists to New Guinea. That immense island is now looked upon as our great field of missionary enterprise. The climate is dangerous, yet we always find eager and able recruits ready to fill all gaps. And all the work is done at little expense to the London Missionary society, for even our students in the training college build their own houses and cultivate their own crops for their food. In a very few years we were able to place native ministers in every village in Samoa. The societies pay the salaries of the few missionaries from home; that is all."

Mr. Hills has been in Samoa since 1887 and knows the people and their needs. His words are a splendid tribute to Christian Endeavor.

DIARRHOEA

There is no need of anyone suffering long with this disease, for to effect a quick cure it is only necessary to take a few doses of

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

In the world's history no medicine has ever met with greater success.

'ANY LITTLE GIRL'

is the title of the delightful song that will be published in the Saturday's Issue of the Daily Republican

Words by Wm. Kendall Evans

Music by Milton W. Lusk

Beatrice Mackenzie.

This song was sung originally in "THE PRINCE OF PARCHESI," a musical comedy that had a big run in Chicago. "ANY LITTLE GIRL" was the song selected by Jesse Lasky as a feature song for his newest vaudeville sensation "AT THE WALDORF." Beatrice Mackenzie is singing it every night, and the repeated encores she receives is ample proof of its popularity.

Everyone should have "ANY LITTLE GIRL." It's the bright number from a Brilliant Broadway Success.

THIS AND THAT

Yesterday two Rushville colored people were elected State treasurers of two different organizations. Funds are probably attracted here by that three per cent on deposits. Verily, it pays to advertise.

New Castle Courier: Rushville will be all right on the boom business if they don't let their alarm clock run down some night.

Be stilled, throbbing heart: the hokey-pokey man is but a few days away.

Yes, just gobs of people go to the Chautauqua that can't pronounce the name to save their gizzards.

THE OLD STORY.
Long, long ago they parted
In grief and stormy tears,
And wandered, sad and lonely,
Down thro' the empty years
And both dreamed of a future
When they should meet once more,
And reconciliation
Complete the plans of yore.
At last the old-time lovers
Met face to face by chance,
And all old thrills and longings
Subsided at a glance.
For he was stout, dyspeptic,
And grouchy as a bear,
While she was thin and dowdy,
And bleached her auburn hair.

When they pave Perkins street a good many people favor reducing "that hump." What street wants to be a camel anyway?

By the time people become thoroughly accustomed to dull times, business gets better.

Shouldn't the grand marshal of an automobile parade ride a motorcycle with a red, white and blue sash tied around it?

Abe Martin Says

Abe Martin says today: "If a feller didn't have a wide circle o' friends he wouldn't have t' loot a bank. Tell Binkley received a barrel o' sugar t'day containin' one hundred an' twenty pints."

The men of forty-nine, the California pioneers, are rapidly dwindling. There are now only seven members of the Sacramento Society of California pioneers. The eighth member recently died, and the survivors acted as pallbearers and mourners.

For many years the observatory of the vatican has been divided, a portion being on the vatican hill, some little distance from the square of St. Peter's, but by a recent rearrangement the entire establishment will be moved to the top of the hill.

Greater South Bend

The Beautiful and Progressive Metropolis of Northern Indiana

If the young men in Rushville who are trying to stir up things commercially, could catch a little of the spirit that has made South Bend one of the best cities in Indiana and a manufacturing city equal to none in the middle west, success would be assured them. True, they are working with their coats off here, but when one visits such a hustling metropolis as South Bend, it makes the heart throb come fast and a thrill fills one's frame, as the thought comes to mind: "here is the exemplification of honest and worthy effort meriting emulation." What has been done there can be accomplished elsewhere. Concerted movement and the total elimination of selfishness are the two cardinal requisites. Such a sentiment is manifested everywhere in Indiana's great northern city.

South Bend is one the prettiest and most wide awake cities of this State. It has a population approaching 60 thousand, making it the largest city in the northern part of the Indiana. It is situated on the St. Joseph river, one of the most picturesque inland streams in the world, six miles south of the Indiana-Michigan line. It is regarded as one of the cleanest, best paved and healthiest cities in America.

It has eight steam railroads, fine street railways, electric interurban systems to adjacent territory, and is one of the best points for manufacturing, general business and residence in the United States.

It has six banks, a $75,000 city hall, a $250,000 court house; a government building; beautiful residences, among them those of Oliver and Studebaker and others; eight square miles of territory; over 140 miles of public streets, and the city itself has 50 miles of paved streets; a handsome $35,000 public library; a fine Y. M. C. A. building, donated by a merchant; fine hotels, among them the Oliver hotel, erected at a cost of $600,000, being one of the finest and most complete in the world; an opera house is now in course of being remodeled to be made one of the finest in the State; the Studebakers are erecting a fine and very costly reinforced concrete office building, to be equal to anything they have in Indianapolis. The city has one hundred and ninety acres of parks, besides the beautiful St. Jo, an ideal river flows through the heart of the city, adding much to the attractiveness of South Bend.

South Bend is a large manufacturing center and its goods are found all over the world. It is the home of the far-famed Oliver Chilled Plow Works and the Studebaker Wagon and Automobile Works. It has the world's largest toy works; the world's largest clover huller plant; one of the world's largest shirt factories; the largest Singer sewing machine case factory in the world; one of the largest watch factories in America; the largest concrete block machine factory in America, and in fact very many and prosperous manufacturing industries, running all the year round. The secret of South Bend's success as a manufacturing center is its abundant water and electric power, generated by the river. The Olivers alone owning a private water power plant of 3000 horse power.

South Bend has fourteen public and a number of parochial schools, all of a high order, the celebrated University of Notre Dame, for men, the world-famed St. Mary's academy for women and a commercial college.

Fifty-two church organizations, many with church edifices of striking architectural appearance.

One hundred and twenty-two artesian wells, supplying pure water for domestic, factory and fire protection purposes all the year, the water being forced throughout the city by standpipe pressure supplied by three pumping stations with a daily capacity of 24,000,000 gallons.

To sum it up, South Bend is an ideal city and it is predicted that in five years that city will be the second largest city in Indiana.

One of the show places near South Bend is the great million dollar dam and power plant of the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., of South Bend. This dam was started July 3, 1907, and completed Oct. 10, 1908, a year and a quarter being occupied in construction. The approximate cost of development and accessories was $1,000,000. This great dam produces a maximum of 10,000 horsepower. The dam is 2000 feet long and backs the water of the St. Joseph river for a distance of 10 miles. Just above it is formed a lake, Lake Chapin, with an area of 2000 acres, its greatest width being 3000 feet. The length of the wheel pits and power house is 275 feet and the length of the Tainter gates is 140 feet. Thirty thousand cubic yards of concrete and many tons of steel were used in building. The fall of water is 21 feet.

The Indiana & Michigan Electric company is one of the large and growing electric power companies of the middle west. Its headquarters are in South Bend, it operates four dams and two steam plants and sends electric current for power and lighting purposes into the Indiana cities of South Bend, Mishawaka and Elkhart and the Michigan cities and towns of Niles, Buchanan, Berrien Springs, St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. It provides current to operate 150 miles of electric street and interurban railways, has 125 miles of transmission lines, transmits 25,000 voltage and its power plants develop 30,000 horse-power.

Many of the Northern Indiana Lake resorts are within easy reach from South Bend, such as Lake Maxinkuckee, Pine Lake, Chain Lakes, only six miles west of South Bend, and Hudson Lake, thirty-five minutes ride from South Bend, a beautiful sheet of water covering one hundred acres.

FREE MONEY IN THIS CITY TODAY

"Advance Copies" of Lincoln Pennies Made Their Appearance in Rushville Today.

CAME FROM SUB TREASURY

Distributed by the People's Bank—
Are Beautiful in Design, Plain,
But Artistic.

They were actually giving money away at the Peoples National bank. That is to a few friends who dropped in when the bank officials were uncasing a shipment of the new Lincoln pennies, which arrived this morning from the sub-treasury.

Much has been said of the new pennies through the press recently and the little pieces of copper created considerable comment among those who received them in change today. It will be some time before they are generally distributed, and quite a while before they cease to be a novelty.

The head of the white girl crowned with laurel leaves, or the "Indian head" as it is commonly called, does not appear on the coinage, but in its place is the bust of Abraham Lincoln standing out in bold relief. Above the head is the inscription, "In God

We Trust," and to one side is the word "Liberty." Opposite this appears the date.

The opposite side of the coin is also different from the old coin. In the center are the words "One Cent," and are larger than formerly. A single eagle feather forms a border for these words and above them appears the Latin inscription, "E Pluribus Unum."

The coin is of the same size and thickness as the old one-cent piece, but the engravings are much plainer and less crowded.

According to contract the new coin will be continued for not less than twenty-five years. The old coins will not be withdrawn and it will be many years before they will disappear. It will also be some time before the new ones will be in general circulation.

There were several amusing incidents in Rushville today when the coin first appeared. One merchant refused to accept one when presented by a little girl. He told her, in all earnestness, that it was a metal badge or advertisement for something. Another fellow said that he thought they were five dollar gold pieces.

UNIVERSALLY GOOD.

The farmers of Rush county declare that never before in the history of the county did the corn crop look as good as it does just now.

It is proposed by the government of Hong-Kong to put a special tax on shipping entering the port, to provide half the cost of a typhoon shelter.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In Little Theodore, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Abercrombie, is a human barometer. Whenever it is going to rain the boy's hair begins to turn curly. And it has been the occasion of many remarks by the parents—especially during the long, continued rainy spell this spring and summer. When they would see the boy's locks begin to turn up on the ends they would say: "There's the sign of rain." The other day the mother was combing Theodore's hair and in some manner the comb caught giving his hair a little twist. With a short cry of pain he bellowed forth, commanding, to his mother, "Hey, stop that please. You're hurtin' the sign of rain."

Billy Brown and Dr. Davis are sore! And you couldn't blame them. Their folks were picnicing along Flatrock this week and the men, being tied down to business could not arrange to spend the day with their families, but promised to get there about noon and help get outside of a bountiful meal. Very good! Twelve bells came and when the men did not put in their appearance the "wimmin' folks" made an elegant spread of foodstuffs and went to the creek to fish. When the veterinary and husky smithy arrived on the scene to and behold, a sad sight met their eyes. In the distant, under the shade of spreading elms, a large, fat porker (not a hog, and by no means a very lady-like animal) was just finishing up on the white tablecloth, having devoured everything else in sight. Sick at heart the two men returned to town and ate a lunch which they positively declare was "on the hog."

BOUGHT A PRINTING PRESS

Next Issue Will be Printed Instead if Written as Heretofore.

J. L. Smith is the publisher of "Smith's Magazine." Mr. Smith is nine-years-old and is a citizen of Connersville, says the Connersville Examiner.

The little publication is interesting if for nothing else than for its novelty and the youth of the editor.

For several months the lad has "written" his magazine. He has only been issuing about a dozen of the little booklets that sell for five cents each. He has a number of regular subscribers and if he sells an extra copy he goes back to his home and "writes-up" another book.

But things have changed a little. The publisher has come into possession of a little printing press and the August number of his magazine is printed instead of "written."

And the "job" is better than one might expect of a boy of his age.

A part of the August number is given to explanation as follows:

"Some months ago the Morning Courier published a piece, stating that my magazine was the smallest magazine in the world, and I was the youngest editor in the world. I commenced my magazine last December in 1908 when I was eight years old.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Star-Grand theater tonight and tomorrow night will be shown the Biograph film story, "The Message, or How a Baby Saves the Mother From a Hideous Wretch." Earl Robertson will sing the illustrated song, "In the Shadows of the Carolina Hills."

"Lucky Jim" is the title of the comic film at the Vaudet tonight. The other is a Biograph film, dealing with a dramatic subject, "Twin Brothers." The illustrated song will be "The Story the Picture Blocks Told."

"The Japanese Invasion," a film which will be shown at the Palace tonight is said to be one of the most interesting ever shown in the city. The film comes to the local house highly recommended. Miss Blanche Wrennick will sing "Prairie Song Bird."

HAS HELD LAST FAIR.

The Hagerstown Fair Board held a meeting and unanimously decided to hold no more fairs. For twenty years the fair has held annual meetings with varying fortunes.

how Drusilla feels. I've-I've had a bad turn or two myself lately, and—but never mind. By the way, what does Chase say about it?" he asked suddenly.

She started and caught her breath.
"Mr. Chase? He—he hasn't said anything about it," she responded lamely.
"He's—he's not that sort."

"Ah," reflected Deppingham, "he is a gentleman?"

Genevra flushed. "Yes, I'm sure he is."

"I say, Genevra," he said, looking straight into her rebellious eyes,
"you're in love with Chase. Why don't you marry him?"

"You—you are really delicious, Dep-py," she cried. "The fever has!"

"He's good enough for any one—even you," went on his lordship coolly.
"He may have a wife," said she, collecting her wits with rare swiftness.
"Who knows? Don't be silly, Deppy."

"Rubbish! Haven't you stuffed Aggy and me full of the things you found out concerning him before he left Thorberg, and afterward—the letters from the ambassador's wife and the glowing things your St. Petersburg friends have to say of him, eh?
Besides, he'd give his head to marry
you—having already lost it."

"You are very amusing, Deppy, when you try to be clever. Is there a clause in that silly old will compelling me to marry any one?"

"Of course not, my dear princess, but I fancy you've got a will of your own. Where there's a will there's a way. You'd marry him tomorrow if—if!"

"If I were not amply prepared to contest my own will?" she supplied airily.

"No; if your will was not wrapped in convention three centuries old. You won't marry Chase because you are a princess. I'm awfully sorry for you, Genevra."

"Sorry for me? Dear me!"

"You're tremendously gone on him,"

"Nonsense! Why, I couldn't marry Mr. Chase," she exclaimed, irritable at last. "Don't put such things into my head—I mean don't get such things into that ridiculous old head of yours.
Are you forgetting that I am to become Karl's wife in June? You are babbling, Deppy."

"Well, let's say no more about it,"
he said, lying back resignedly. "It's too bad, that's all. Chase is a man.
Karl isn't. You loathe him. I don't wonder that you turn pale and look frightened. Take my advice—take Chase."

"Don't!" she cried, a break in her voice. She arose and went swiftly toward the window. Then she stopped and turned upon him, her lips parted as if to give utterance to the thing that was stirring her heart so violently. The words would not come. She smiled plaintively and said instead:
"Good night! Get a good sleep."

"The same to you," he called feverishly.

"Deppy," she said firmly, a red spot in each cheek, her voice tense and strained to a high pitch of suppressed decision, "I shall marry Karl Brabetz.
That will be the end of your Mr.
Chase."

"I hope so," he said. "But I'm not so sure of it if you continue to love him as you do now."

She went out with her cheeks burning and a frightened stir in her heart.
Her thoughts raced back to Neenah's
air prophecy.

How could she face the charge, "I'm not so sure of it," unless she killed the indictment, "If you love him as you do now."

Lady Agnes and Browne passed by without seeing her and entered the window. She heard him say something to his companion, softly, tenderly—she knew not what it was. And Lady Agnes laughed—yes, nervously.
Ah, but Agnes was playing! She was not in love with this man. It was different. It was not what Neenah meant—not Deppingham, honest friend that he was.

Down below she heard voices. She wondered—inconsistently alert—whether he was one of the speakers. Thomas Saunders and Miss Pelham were coming in from the terrace. They were in love with each other! They could be in love with each other.
There was no law, no convention that said them nay! They could marry—and still love! "If you continue to love him as you do now" battered at the doors of her conscience.

Her maid came in, and she prepared for bed. Left alone, she perched herself in the window seat to cool her heated face with the breezes that swept ahead of the storm which was coming up from the sea. Her heart was hot; no breeze could cool it;
nothing but the ice of decision could drive out the fever that possessed it.

"It is impossible—incredible!" she was saying to herself. "I could not love him like that. I should hate him.
God above me, am I not different from those women whom I have known and pitied and despised? Am I not different from Guelma von Herrick? Am I not different from Prince Henri's wife? Ah, and they loved too!
And is he not different from those other men—those weak, unmanly men who came into the lives of those women? Ah, yes, yes! He is different."

She sat and stared out over the black sea, lighted fitfully by the distant lightning. There she pronounced sentence upon him—and herself. There was no place for him in her world.
He should feel her disdain; he should suffer for his presumption. Presumption? In what way had he offended?
She put her hands to her eyes, but her lips smiled—smiled with the memory of the kiss she had returned.

"What a fool! What a fool I am,"
she cried aloud, springing up resolutely. "I must forget. I told him I couldn't, but I can—I can." Halfway across the room she stopped, her hands clutched fiercely. "If—if Karl were only such as he!" she moaned.

She went to her dressing table and resolutely unlocked one of the drawers, as one would open a case in which the most precious of treasures was kept.

"It was so silly of me!" she muttered. "I shall not keep them for him." The drawer was partly filled with cigarettes. She took one from among the rest and placed its tip in her red lips, a reckless light in her eyes. A match was struck, and then her hand seemed to be in the clutch of some invisible force. The light flickered and died in her fingers. A blush suffused her face, her eyes, her neck.
Then, with a guilty, shamed, tender smile, she dropped the cigarette into the drawer. She turned the key.

"No," she said to herself; "I told him that I was keeping them for him."

CHAPTER XXV.
THE TRIAL OF VON BLITZ.

THE next morning found the weather unsettled. There had been a fierce storm during the night, and a nasty mist was blowing up from the sea. Deppingham kept to his room, although his cold was dissipated.

Chase had been up nearly all of the night, fearful lest the islanders should seize the opportunity to scale the walls under cover of the tempest. All through the night he had been possessed of a spirit of wild bravado, a glorious exaltation. He was keeping watch over her, standing between her and peril, guarding her while she slept.
His thoughts, however, did not contemplate the princess fair in a state of wretched insomnia, with himself as the disturbing element.

He looked for her at breakfast time.
They usually had their rolls and coffee together. When she did not appear he made more than one pretext to lengthen his own stay in the breakfast room. "She's trying to forget yesterday," he reflected.

Selim came to him in the midst of his reflections, bearing a thick, rain soaked envelope.

"It was found, excellency, inside the southern gate, and it is meant for you," said Selim. Chase gingerly slashed open the envelope with his fruit knife. He laughed ruefully as he read the simple but laborious message from Jacob von Blitz:

"Where are your warships all this time? They are not coming to you ever. Goodbye. You got to die yet too.
Your friend, Jacob von Blitz. And my wives too."

Chase stuffed the blurred, sticky letter into his pocket and arose to stretch himself.

"There's something coming to you, Jacob," he said, much to the wonder of Selim. "Selim, unless I miss my guess pretty badly, we'll be having a message, not from Garcia, but from Rasula before long. How are my cigarettes holding out?"

"They run low, sahib. Neenah has given all of hers to me for you, excellency, and I have demanded those of the wives of Von Blitz."

"Selim, you must not forget that you are a gentleman. That was most un-gallant. But I suppose you got them?"

"No, sahib. They refused to give them up. They are saving them for Mr. Britt," said Selim dejectedly.

"Ah, the fickety of women!" he sighed. "There's a new word for you, Selim—fickety."

It was far past midday when he heard from Rasula. He had seen the princess but once, and then she was walking briskly, wrapped in a rain coat, followed by her shivering dogs and her two Rapp-Thorberg soldiers.
Somehow she failed to see Chase as he sauntered hungrily, almost imper-

ingly, across the upper terrace, in plain view. Perhaps, after all, it was not the weather.

Rasula's messenger came to the gates and announced that he had a letter for Mr. Chase. Rasula had this to say:

"We have reason to suspect that you were right in your suspicions. The golden plate has been found this day in the cave below the chateau, just as you have said. This much of what you have charged against Jacob von Blitz seems to be borne out by the evidence secured.
Last night there was an attempt to rob
the vaults in the company's bank. Again I followed your advice and laid a trap for the men engaged. They were slain in the struggle which followed. I have to inform you, sir, that your charge against Jacob von Blitz does not hold good in the case of the bank robbery. Therefore I am impelled to believe that you may have unjustly accused him of being implicated in the robbery of the treasure chests. He was not among the bank thieves. There were but three of them—the Boer foremen. Jacob von Blitz came up himself and joined us in the fight against the traitors. He was merciless in his anger against them. You have said that you will testify against him. Sir, I have taken it upon myself to place him under restraint notwithstanding his actions against the Boers. He shall have a fair trial. If it is proved that he is guilty, he shall pay the penalty. We are just people."

Sir, we, the people of Japat, will take you at your word. We ask you to appear against the prisoner and give evidence in support of your charge. He shall be placed on trial tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. On my honor as a man and a believer I assure safety to you while you are among us on that occasion. I, Rasula, will meet you at the gates and will conduct you back to them in safety. If you are a true man, you will not evade
the call.

RASULA.
"Well, it looks as though Von Blitz has spiked your guns," said Deppingham. "The dog turns against his confederates and saves his own skin by killing them."

"In any event," said Browne, "you spoiled his little game. He loses the treasure, and he didn't get into the vaults. Rasula should take those points into consideration."

"He won't forget them, rest assured.
That's why I'm sure that he'll take my word at the trial as against that of Von Blitz," said Chase.

"You—you don't mean to say, Mr.
Chase, that you are going into the town?" cried Lady Agnes, wide eyed.

SLIGHT CLUE TO ASSAILANTS

When Grover Williams Returned From Work Last Evening He Found His Wife With a Fractured Skull, Moaning, "They Are Killing Me, Grover; They're Killing Me!"—The Williams Home Stood in Isolated Spot and Victim of Cruel Attack Had No Way of Giving Alarm.

Indianapolis, Aug. 6.—When Grover
C. Williams returned from work at 5:30 o'clock last night to his home, 1516 Schurman avenue, he found his wife, Mrs. Toledo Williams, lying unconscious in a chair, with her skull crushed. She was severely injured otherwise. There were evidences of a terrific struggle.

The only clue that the police have to the assailants is the unconscious murmurings of the victim: "They're killing me, Grover."

Mrs. Williams was taken to the city hospital, where it was found that her injuries are of a serious nature. Physicians in charge say she is probably fatally hurt. Her skull was badly crushed. The woman's nose was broken, her back and shoulder bruised and her left hand fractured. She evidently had been placed in the chair
where she was found by her husband.

The Williams home is located in an isolated and desolate spot. Cornfields surround the house on three sides, and it is three squares to the nearest neighbor. According to the statements of other residents in the vicinity, Mrs. Williams left a nearby home at 3:15 o'clock. Her husband, who is a printer, was seen to approach the home, coming from his work, at 5:30 o'clock. Soon afterward he ran to the neighbors, frantically shouting for help. It is believed the woman's assailants were in the home waiting for her to return.

When the neighbors rushed to the scene Mrs. Williams was still murmuring: "They're killing me, Grover.
They're killing me, Grover." The police were notified and detectives are now working in search of some tangible clue to the mystery.

DEADLY COLLISION

Trolley Car Hits Auto and Iowa Banker and Wife Are Killed.

Alexandria, Ind., Aug. 6.—As the result of a collision between the touring car in which they were riding and the Marion Flyer at Star's Crossing, one mile north of this city, Mr. and Mrs.
John W. Cravens of Spring Lake, Ia., were instantly killed. The touring car was headed south, and the flyer had just rounded a corner, turning directly west. A cornfield intervened between the touring car and the traction car, so that it was impossible for Mr. Cravens to see the flyer or for the motorman to see the automobile until the crash occurred. Mr. Cravens's head was almost severed from the body, and Mrs. Cravens was also frantically mangled.

Mr. Cravens was president of the First National bank of Spring Lake, Ia., and was said to be a very wealthy man. He was a cousin of Dr. Cravens of Indianapolis, and it is thought that they were en route to that city from Chicago when killed.

A NASTY SPILL

Ed Geers Again Has Cause to Thank His Lucky Star.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 6.—The wildly known driver, Ed F. Geers, had a wonderful escape from serious accident at the grand circuit races, when he was thrown over the fence during the first heat of the $5,000 pacing event. Geers was driving Annabelle Lee, and led to the half, soon after which the mare broke. He took her to the outside to straighten her, but a line snapped and Annabelle Lee swerved, then plunged through a gap in the fence. The sulky was demolished and Geers struck on the turf, which saved him perhaps from fatal injuries. No bones were broken, but one ankle is badly sprained.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

COUNTY NEWS

Arlington.

Weather very warm.

Wheat threshing is progressing rapidly.

Frank Offutt shipped on last Monday over 300 head of fancy hogs. Frank is one of the enterprising farmers of Posey township.

The foundation work of the new Christian church building is nearing completion. Then the contractor will go ahead with the brick work. This will be one of the model church buildings in Rush county. It is going to cost a good deal more than was first counted on.

The contractor, Mr. Strode commenced work on the destruction of the old school building and will erect the new building on the lot where the old building now stands.

The prospect for a good corn crop never was as flattering as it is at present.

G. W. Offutt bought a horse, buggy and harness Tuesday for which he paid $700. This of course is a fine turnout and he will use it only on special occasions.

Arlington, since the building boom has come is attracting a large number of contractors and material men who are looking after contracts etc.

Mrs. Vandall has been dangerously ill for several days and at this time she is no better.

Arlington never in its history ever enjoyed a greater business boom than the present one. If good lots could be obtained at a reasonable price it would still increase.

Another thing that is needed is a factory that would give employment to a number of men. The young men of this town should co-operate with Rushville and go in with the Rushville boom.

George Glendenning one of the prosperous farmers of Posey township passed away on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Glendenning was prominent in church work as well as business circles, being a great church worker in the M. E. church at this place. He will be greatly missed in this township.

Why don't some business men start a lumber and shingle yard here? If some Rushville firm would open a branch yard here they would do a fine business.

We are greatly in need of a creamery establishment here. Who will start one?

There is no better point on the I. & C. traction line for a canning factory than Arlington.

Dr. A. G. Shauck is now at work on his new residence.

A child Ed Geary's of Anderson, formerly of this county was buried in the Arlington cemetery on Wednesday morning.

Sickness is on the increase and the doctors are kept busy and there will still be more of it if more sanitary measures are not adopted and the streets and alleys cleaned up. No town needs to be incorporated more than Arlington.

There has been several new arrivals at different homes in Arlington the past week which adds to the population and makes homes happy.

A number of Arlington people will attend the chautauqua this year.

One or two weddings has been planned for Arlington in the near future.

The St. Louis police have no tangible clue to the kidnapped Viviano children, Grace and Tomasso. Search for the children has turned to nearby Illinois towns.

James Pullman and May Williams, both of Mt. Carmel, Ill., are under arrest at Belleville, charged respectfully with murder and being accessory to the crime of killing a child.

The strike of more than 6,000 Japanese plantation laborers, which has been in progress for two months and has caused much loss to the planters in the Hawaiian Islands, has been declared off.

Another upheaval has occurred in the personnel of the department of commerce and labor as the result of a probe into the efficiency record of employees in that department, and a number have been dismissed.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Rushville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hastens the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come and there is an ever-increasing tendency toward diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Rushville cures are the proof.

Mrs. Ulysses Beaver, 120 Fifth street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I feel that it is my duty to advise parents having children afflicted with kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. One of my children was troubled in this way and had but little control over the kidney secretions at night. Hearing of similar cases where Doan's Kidney Pills had effected cures I procured a supply of the remedy at F. E. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. It brought prompt relief and convinced me of its great merit."

Plum Creek.

Threshing in this neighborhood will soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Stewart and little son, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitton last Sunday.

Mrs. John Carroll of near Clarksburg is the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wash Hood.

Rev. T. H. Kuhn of Richmond filled his regular appointment at Raleigh last Sunday. He also immersed Miss Lorene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jackson on that day.

Several from here attended church at Center Sunday night. Their meeting still continues.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitton entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. Al Sharp and family.

About thirty attended the meeting of the Plum Creek Aid Society last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wash Hood. They meet Thursday of this week at the home of Mrs. Will McMillin for the purpose of sewing for Mrs. Bert Norris.

A large crowd attended the funeral of William Clifton at the Raleigh Christian church last Sunday afternoon. He formerly lived in this neighborhood and was liked by those who knew him. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. W. Conner of Lafayette. Burial at Raleigh cemetery.

Get ready to attend the Chautauqua which begins Friday of this week.

Several of the members at Plum Creek met last Monday and put in a cement walk at their church.

An Up-to-Date Druggist

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go on to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Will Speak at Chautauquas in Three States.

James E. Watson leaves this evening for a several days Chautauqua tour through Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri. During this trip Mr. Watson will speak at some of the largest Chautauquas and at places where only high class talent is engaged. Mr. Watson's services have been in much demand during the summer and he has been able to fill only a part of the engagements for which he has been wanted.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Shelbyville Republican: A booster from a town is one of the greatest blessings God ever put upon earth. A man who is not ashamed of his home town, but who boasts it whenever opportunity presents itself should be awarded a monument a mile high when he dies and upon it should be inscribed: "Here lies a booster, and he boosted well. His soul has gone to glory, the knocker gone to h—."

According to a statement by the German colonial secretary, the value of the diamondiferous deposits in German Southwest Africa amounts to $250,000,000.

Chautauqualets

The Tri Kappas have a chapter house on the grounds. They have a tent and each night some of the members will "camp out" and sit in the sun in the morning in an effort to get a real vacation tan. That tent is foxy, too.

This may sound a bit "fishy," but it is a fact. One of the guarantors was aroused from his pleasant slumbers this morning by some person who had just got the fever and wanted to buy a ticket. There was some ground for his fear that they would be all gone if he waited any longer, for they have been going like hot cakes all day.

Many people from Shelbyville, Knightstown and Connersville have sent word that they expect to attend the Chautauqua.

The lighting this year is much better than ever before. More lights have been placed and better placed, than in previous years.

No more uncomfortable "reserved" circus seats. In their place this year are comfortable settees.

The Daily Republican executive tent has been officially opened and the "welcome" sign is now flying. The only telephone on the grounds is in this tent and is for free use of the visitors. There will also be stationery in the tent.

Harry Lucas in his perch in the treetop will entertain with cornet solos each evening.

Never before has the Chautauqua grounds and stage looked so beautiful.

There is a large electric horse shoe over the entrance at the ground. It will be good luck to enter.

The auto parade this afternoon covered a distance of a little over four miles. Dr. Frank Green registered it.

A short musical program was given this afternoon and enjoyed by those who went to the grounds in motor cars.

INDIANA CORN LOOKING GOOD

General Belief is That Hoosier State Will Have a Bumper Crop.

FARMERS WERE VERY BLUE

Continued Rains Flooded Lowlands, But High Grounds Corn Was Greatly Benefited.

While there are many farmers in Indiana who have been shaking their heads in a knowing manner and asserting that the crops this season are going to prove a failure, the more liberal and best posted ones are acknowledging that, barring unforeseen troubles, the crop in the Hoosier commonwealth this season will be the banner one in the history of the entire State.

The rains of this spring and summer were discouraging and there were many times when the farmers had good reason to feel blue. The valley lands suffered worst, as some of the crops of corn were put in as many as four times before they were made to stick. Since that time the corn has worked overtime and has grown with surprising speed.

The corn on the highlands is already made, it is claimed, if there is not another drop of rain, and this character of weather would be beneficial to the valley lands, although there is much to be done before the crop there is made. It is a well established fact that ninety days are required to make a corn crop in this State, and the corn that was put in as late as July 3, will make good if the fall weather is favorable.

The corn in the central and northern parts of the State, as well as the highlands of the southern part of Indiana is looking fine and a bumper crop is assured.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

Carthage Citizen: Jesse Siler had his arm caught in a threshing machine yesterday morning which made a very painful wound, requiring several stitches.

Pain's Battle In the Clouds

Cincinnati has never attempted anything on such a large scale as Pain's "Battle in the Clouds," which will be seen at National League Ball Park, in that city for nine nights, beginning Monday, August 16th.

"The Battle in the Clouds," unlike "Pompeii," "Fall of Rome," "Burning of Babylon," and others, is not historical. It is a prophecy. Time is lunged forward a century, when aerial navigation is the rule and order of transportation; when there is interplanetary communication; when the secret of radio-activity has been solved and its cataclysmic forces harnessed; when war means not conquest but annihilation. It is a captivating fancy and is wrought out with a plausibility and dramatic daring that unite to make the spectacle the most popular the genius of Pain and his marvelous staff have ever developed for popular diversion.

The pyrotechnics are marvelous and the theatrical phases of the presentation easily understood. For many years Pain has been the undisputed premier in this fashion of popular amusement, and "The Battle in the Clouds" will add to his repute. The scene is laid in the City of Science in the year 2660 and more than five hundred performers and supernumeraries are used in the production. The big spectacle will be followed by a display of fireworks costing $1000, each night.

The big production will be brought to Cincinnati by newspaper men, including George Randolph Chester, author of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" and many other stories, and Charles Virgil Tevis. Railroads will make special rates.

It has been discovered by the Chinese ministry of civil office that there are some 80,000 dismissed or degraded officials who are entitled to reinstatement by special grace on the occasion of the new reign, and these officials are availing themselves of the opportunity to pour in their applications to be restored to their ranks.

Chimneys were first used in Europe in the fourteenth century. None of the Roman ruins shows chimneys like ours. The wealthy Romans used carefully dried wood, which would burn in the room without soot.
